Standards Based Learning:

At WIMA and WIHI, we practice Standards Based Learning, which is a skills-based assessment system that assesses students based on their mastery in different categories and gives grades based on growth rather than averages. For more information about Standards Based Learning please visit:

<https://www.wihi.org/standards-based-learning.html>

Homework and Class Assignments:

Other tasks outside of the assessment categories, such as homework and in-class activities, do not factor into the overall calculated grade for the class. These assignments will be marked as “Excluded” in PowerSchool. However, this does not mean that these assignments were not necessary to complete.

Homework and in-class assignments are part of the learning process and are often marked in the gradebook so that parents can observe and monitor their student’s participation in the learning process. If students do not complete these assignments, they will be marked as “Missing”. Missing assignments may also affect your student’s ability to retake or make revisions to assessments.
